Additional Graduate Students (and Undergrads) with whom I worked closely:

Joshua R. Oltmanns (Washington University, 2010-2012). Worked in my lab as a full-time research assistant after graduating from Indiana University with a bachelor's degree in music business from Indiana University. Current position: Post-doctoral research associate, Stony Brook University.

Erika N. Carlson (Washington University, 2008-2013). Simine Vazire was her primary mentor, and I worked closely with her as a secondary mentor and research collaborator. Current position: Associate Professor of Psychology, University of Toronto at Mississauga.

Nicholas R. Eaton (Washington University, 2004-2006). Worked in my lab full-time as project coordinator after graduating from WU with a bachelor's degree and before going to the University of Minnesota to study for his Ph.D. with Bob Krueger. Current position: Associate Professor of Psychology and Director of Clinical Training, Stony Brook University.

Monnica T. Williams (University of Virginia, 2000-2003). I served as the co-mentor for her master's thesis research on racial bias in the assessment of anxiety disorders. She completed her Ph.D. at Virginia after I left UVA for Washington University. Current position: Associate Professor, Department of Psychological Sciences, University of Connecticut.

Allan D. Clifton (University of Virginia, 1998-2003). Worked in the research lab that I directed with Eric Turkheimer, who served as chair of his dissertation. I was a secondary mentor. Current position: Associate Professor of Psychology, Vassar College.

R. Cannon Thomas (University of Virginia, 1997-2002). Worked in the research lab that I directed with Eric Turkheimer, who served as chair of his dissertation. I was a secondary mentor. Current Position: Director, San Francisco Group for Evidence-Based Psychotherapy and Assistant Clinical Professor, University of California San Francisco.

Joneis Thomas (University of Virginia, 1996-1999). I served as the co-mentor (with Eric Turkheimer) for her master's degree research on racial bias in the assessment of anxiety disorders. She completed her dissertation under the direction of our colleague, Melvin Wilson. Current Position: Lead of Wellness Services at the National Intrepid Center of Excellence, Washington, D.C. (formerly Assistant Professor, Department of Psychology, Howard University).

Ann B. Ragin (Indiana University, 1982-1984). Worked in my lab and published articles with me as an undergrad before attending Northwestern University to study for her Ph.D. Current position: Research Professor of Radiology, Feinberg School of Medicine, Northwestern University.

Michael F. Pogue-Geile (Indiana University, 1976-1980). I served as his primary mentor and director of his master's degree research on schizophrenia and then as a member of his dissertation committee (chaired by Richard Rose). Current position: Professor of Psychology and Director of Clinical Training, University of Pittsburgh.

Post-Doctoral Research Associates and Fellows Supervised:

Michael Boudreaux (Ph.D. in Personality Psychology from UC-Riverside, 2014 with Dan Ozer). Worked in my lab from 2014 to 2019. Current Position: Research Associate at Hogan Assessments in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Yana Weinstein (Ph.D. in Cognitive Psychology from University College London, 2009 with David Shanks). Worked in my lab from 2011 to 2012. Current Position: Assistant Professor of Psychology, University of Massachusetts – Lowell.
